Bitter Tears of Petra von Kant, The Director: Rainer Werner Fassbinder with Margit Carstensen, Irm Hermann, Hanna Schygulla, Eva Mattes.

1972, 124 minutes, English subtitles.

The story deals with the shifting power relationships among 3 women: a successful fashion designer, her contented assistant, and a sultry model. Accompanied by the music of Verdi and The Platters, dressed in an incredible mélange of glitter and C.B. DeMille, these women act out a super-charged melodrama of passion.

Director: Marcus Imhoof

with Tina Engel, Curt Bois, Renate Steiger, Mathias Gnadinger, Ged David, Michael Gempart, Hans Diehl, Martin Walz, Simone and Laurent.

1980, 104 minutes, English subtitles.

A conflict of country versus conscience is at the heart of this haunting film. It is the summer of 1942 and the Swiss government, alarmed at the vast numbers of people fleeing Nazi Germany, has set up immigration policies so stringent that they have declared the country <>.

A Swiss woman wants to protect Jewish people who have come onto her property. Her husband does not want to protect them. When authorities are alerted, the family and the people in the town have a decision to make: to save the refugees or hand them over. The terrible twists and turns of this life-or-death decision create a chilling suspense that is unrelenting until the last frame.

Dragon Chow

Jan Schütte

with Bhasker, Ric Young, Buddy Uzzaman

1987, 75 minutes, Black and White, German, Urdu, Mandarin with enhanced English subtitles.

Dragon Chow is the beautiful and moving story of Asian political refugees living on the edge of deportation in the land of economic miracles, West Germany. The film's hero, Shezad, arrives in Hamburg and finds himself in an Unpromised Land of welfare hotels and con men.

Shezad manages to land a job in a second-rate Chinese restaurant where he befriends a waiter named Xiao.

In this story, which resembles My Beautiful Laundrette, the two join forces in an attempt to storm the citadel of Western capitalism by opening a restaurant of their own.

Effi Briest

Director: Rainer Maria Fassbinder

Mit Hanna Schygulla, Wolfgang Schenck, Ulli Lommel.

1974, 135 minutes, English subtitles.

The most famous 19th-century German novel Theodor Fontane's Effi Briest holds a position like <> in France.

Effi Briest is a radiant beauty, a vivacious blend of naïveté and intelligence, forthrightness and willful self-interest. Married to an older Prussian diplomat she has a short affair with a local womanizer at a small Baltic port. The consequences take full effect six years later, in a chilling manifestation of the Prussian legal code. This is the director's most classical and elegant film.

Ewige Jude, Der

Direktor: Fritz Hippler.

1940, 62 minutes, black and white, with recently-recorded high-quality English voice-over sound track and English titles.

A visit to the Lodz ghetto in Nazi-occupied Poland, recorded by German cameramen with the naïve co-operation of the Jewish community is combined with rare archival footage, clips from international newsreels, and excerpts from related cultural films to portray the World's Jews as swindlers and parasites. This pseudo-logical, uncomfortably-realistic, and genuinely-frightening point of traditional European anti-Semitism and Nazi ideology. A candid, cinematically-unique expression of racial hatred.

Faust: The Man and the Legend

29 minutes, color.

The historical Dr. Faust, and the legends that have arisen around him thanks to the writings of Marlowe, Lessing, and Goethe, are the subject of this fascinating program. The real Faust – excommunicated as a heretic – is presented as a victim of the political and religious tensions of his day. In a medieval world that believed in the corporal presence of the Devil, the accusation that Faust was in league with Mephistopheles seems strangely reasonable. Faust's mysterious death is seen as contributing to the subsequent legends that developed surrounding his character. Viewers gain a sense of Europe before the Enlightenment, and of the legendary figure who continues to symbolize humankind's quest for scientific knowledge.

1996, 93 minutes, German with English subtitles.

A hilarious look at the mistaken sexual identity, Maybe...Maybe Not deftly explores the comic possibilities of what happens when two gender worlds clash. The story revolves around a handsome main character Axel, an open-minded heterosexual whose girlfriend, Doro, has just thrown him out for cheating on her. The only place he can find to sleep is at the apartment of Norbert, a gay acquaintance who would like nothing better than to seduce Axel. Doro announces that she is pregnant, then finds Axel and Norbert in a compromising position and decides that her lover is gay. In the comedy of errors that follows, everything Axel does goes hilariously wrong. Will Axel's life ever be normal again? Maybe...Maybe Not.

1995, 115 minutes, German with yellow English subtitles.

A riveting saga of two lovers trapped on opposite sides of the Berlin Wall. In 1961, on the eastern side of a Germany divided, The Promise tells the story of Konrad and Sophie – two teenagers who've planned their escape to the west. As Sophie successfully flees, Konrad falters, and at that moment, they both realize their lives will never be the same.

The two are forced to live apart despite the fact that a torch still burns between them. Only when the Wall comes down can the flood of emotions break free.

Wonderfully photographed, superbly acted, and artfully directed, this epic story provides great insight into the power and endurance of love.

The Edukators

2004 130 minutes German with optional English subtitles DVD

Actors: Knut Berger, Bernhard Bettermann, Oliver Bröcker, Daniel Brühl, Sebastian Butz

Jan (Daniel Brühl, Ladies in Lavender) and Peter are the best friends behind the radical and mysterious group The Edukators, united by their passion to change the world, in "The funniest, most original movie I've seen all year." (David Edwards, The Daily Mirror). When the rich go on vacation, The Edukators break into their homes. They don't steal, but simply rearrange everything, leaving the message "Your days of plenty are numbered." When Peter's girlfriend Jule (Julia Jentsch, winner, Best Young Actress, 2005 Bavarian Film Awards) moves in, she joins them in their subversive activities. But when a rich businessman catches them in the act, they rashly decide to kidnap him. Faced with the values of the generation in power, they will see what kind of revolutionaries they are, if their friendship can survive, and discover if they truly work in the interest of the greater good, or just in their own self-interest. Passions rage and loyalties shatter in director Hans Weingartner's exciting film that's "Fresh, biting, gripping, tender, and tense." (The Telegraph On Sunday)

The Lives of Others

2006 Run Time: 137 minutes Language: German Optional Subtitles: English, Spanish, French DVD

Director: Florian Henckel von Donnersmarck

Actors: Martina Gedeck, Ulrich Mühe, Sebastian Koch, Ulrich Tukur, Thomas Thieme

This critically-acclaimed, Oscar®-winning film (Best Foreign Language Film, 2006) is the erotic, emotionally-charged experience Lisa Schwarzbaum (Entertainment Weekly) calls “a nail-biter of a thriller!” Before the collapse of the Berlin Wall, East Germany’s population was closely monitored by the State Secret Police (Stasi). Only a few citizens above suspicion, like renowned pro-Socialist playwright Georg Dreyman, were permitted to lead private lives. But when a corrupt government official falls for Georg’s stunning actress-girlfriend, Christa, an ambitious Stasi policeman is ordered to bug the writer’s apartment to gain incriminating evidence against the rival. Now, what the officer discovers is about to dramatically change their lives – as well as his – in this seductive political thriller Peter Travers (Rolling Stone) proclaims is “the best kind of movie: one you can’t get out of your head.”

1965; Run Time: 277 minutes; Language: German or English (selectable); Subtitles: English; Region 2 DVD: it WILL NOT play on standard US DVD player; 3-DVD Set; The film Winnetou III does NOT have English language selections

Director: Harald Reinl

Actors: Lex Barker, Pierre Brice, Marie Versini, Mario Adorf, Walter Barnes

Winnetou I: Apache Gold:

Apache Gold was a German/French/Yugoslav coproduction, originally titled Winnetou I. Teil (British title: Winnetou the Warrior). It was one of a series of European Technicolor westerns based on the 'Winnetou' stories of German author Karl May. As in most of these films, French actor Pierre Brice stars as Winnetou, here dedicated to halting the activities of gold raiders in Apache territory. Apache Gold was released on a limited basis in the US by Columbia Pictures; in some cities, the film went directly to television.

Winnetou II: The Last Of The Renegades:

In this western, an entry in the 'Winnetou' series based on Germany's Karl May's novels, follows the attempts of two con men to cheat the Apaches out of their oil rights. They are foiled by Old Shatterhand and Winnetou, his Apache partner. The film was made on location in Yugoslavia.

Winnetou III: The Desperado Trail:

American actor Lex Barker and Frenchman Pierre Brice are teamed once again in the Teutonic western Winnetou, Part III. The noble Indian Winnetou and his friend Old Shatterhand battle settlers who have been duped by an unscrupulous land grabber into a war with the Apaches.

Colonel Redl

1985; Run Time 142 minutes; Language: German; subtitles: English; VHS tape

Director: Istvan Szabo

Actors: Klaus Maria Brandauer, Hans Christian Blech, Armin Muller-Stahl

A sweeping historical epic of power, intrigue, love and lust set in Austria during the turbulent years before the start of World War I.

COLONEL REDL is the story of Alfred Redl, the son of a poor railway worker who, through driving ambition, became the head of military intelligence and commander of the 8th Army in Prague. This drama vividly recreates Redl's life from his childhood in military school to his mysterious end amidst rumors of deceit and adultery.

The Marquise of O

1999; Run Time: 102 minutes; Language: German; subtitles: English; VHS tape

Director: Eric Rohmer

Actors: Edith Clever, Ruth Drexel, Bernhard Frey, Bruno Ganz, Hesso Huber

Set in 18th century Italy during the Franco-Prussian War, THE MARQUISE OF O centers on a young widow (Edith Clever) who is saved from an attempted rape but then mysteriously finds herself pregnant several months later. Unaware of how this happened, she is sent away by her family and ends up marrying her rescuer, whom she doesn't know is the child's father.

Solo Sunny

1980; Run Time: 102 minutes; Language: German; subtitles: English; DVD

Directors: Konrad Wolf and Wolfgang Kohlhaase

Actors: Renate Krößner, Alexander Lang, Dieter Montag, Heide Kipp, Klaus Brasch

A major success when it opened in 1980 and considered one of the most significant German films of all time. Solo Sunny more than any other DEFA film captures the vividness and realism of 70s film mavericks like Robert Altman and Hal Ashby.

The film centers around Sunny, a soulful, aspiring singer who falls in love, breaks hearts - and has her own broken (not for the first time). After being kicked out of her band, she tries to re-invent herself in East Berlin's underground scene. With Renate Krößner (Go For Zucker) giving an award-winning performance as Sunny, this mesmerizing portrait of East Germany's youth also captures the gritty-glitzy Berlin of the 70s in its visuals and its catchy soundtrack.

Rosenstrasse

2005; Run time: 136 minutes; Language: German; Subtitles: English; DVD

Director: Margarethe Von Trotta

Actors: Katja Riemann, Maria Schrader, Doris Schade

In the cold Berlin winter of 1943, hundreds of women stood, and waited, in defiance of the Nazis. While countless Jews were being sent to concentration camps for execution, Jewish husbands of Aryan wives suffered a different fate; they were separated from their families and imprisoned in a factory on a street named Rosenstrasse. On that street these women stood in protest, in the name of love until they were reunited with their men. This is the striking story of Rosenstrasse: where the power of the human will stands unconquerable - for hope, dignity and love.
